Paul Giandomenico is a representative of Centinel Financial Group LLC. He began his financial services practice in 1992.

Paul focuses his practice on providing comprehensive financial solutions to both individuals and business owners, with an emphasis on estate conservation, executive compensation design and wealth management strategies.

Over the past seventeen years, he has developed strong relationships with his clients and has become a trusted resource for their short- and long-term financial needs. His approach to financial management is straight forward – he listens closely to his clients’ goals and desires, helps them identify what is truly important to them, and develops customized strategies based on their individual goals, time line and risk tolerance. As their representative, he continues to meet with his clients on a regular basis to monitor and review their evolving needs and goals, alerting them to changes in the marketplace, as well as working together with clients on new opportunities to help them accumulate and protect their wealth.
